Hello,

Please do not authorise any further development of wind farms in our beautiful country. Wales has many areas of outstanding beauty, but too many of them have lost some of their wild essence because there is always a view of a hilltop bristling with wind turbines. Surely there are places better suited for this type of industrial construction. A prime example is the stretch of M56 passing Ellesmere Port ; here is a motorway, an oil refinery, wind turbines, and a constant, unpleasant smell. I doubt anyone objects to wind turbines in this already ruined landscape.

I know I am not alone with my point of view. Please listen to our requests, and treat them, and our wonderful country, with respect.

Thank you (in anticipation)

Fiona Chappell
