

From: [REDACTED]
To: NDE
Subject: Wind turbines on land in Wales
Date: 03 November 2019 16:46:14

---

To whom it may concern

Please think again!! It is so unnecessary to cover this beautiful countryside with giant turbines when we have a suitable coast line that makes placement in the sea just as accessible. There is also evidence that marine wind turbines are more efficient... have you done due diligence by examining such issues??

You are claiming this project is an asset to Wales- all the while destroying another one. Particularly where Anglesey is concerned as the tourist industry is so important in generating incomes on the island. Who wants to come where these structures are going to be visible from almost everywhere. Talk about intrusive!!!

Then there is the issue of separation distance from towns/ villages and rural settlements... i note Wales is opting for 500m - this is for turbines of 250m??!! This is the shortest distance I've ever seen anywhere in the UK.. how do you justify this, considering all criteria?

Please stop and rethink.

Thank you

Carol Horne

Sent from Yahoo Mail for iPhone