Dear Sir/Madam. Why are you so determined to destroy Powys country side. You have picked many beauty spots that people have come to see, but would not come after your proposed development. You intend to lose many peoples jobs in tourism also affecting house prices. These are not some thing of beauty , these are also noisy affecting peoples mental health putting more strain on the NHS. I also note that no mention of pylons which are a bigger blight than turbines or a connection to the national grid. The other thing that you have not thought of is the transport of these wonderful turbines which block the roads at very slow speeds which in turn will kill tourist's who would be stuck behind them. Countries that already have them find the blades do not last very long and have to be replaced and the old blades are buried so how much land is left after all your proposal's. We might as well all leave Wales now, who want's to live next to a turbine! I thought you were supposed to look after Wales? Angry Frank Rothwell
