Introduction:

This is the fourteenth report the Welsh Government has published on the implementation of open government legislation and policies. This is a retrospective report which describes our experiences during 2019.

The statistics in this report relate to the handling of requests for recorded information under the Freedom of Information Act 2000 (FOIA), the Environmental Information Regulations 2004 (EIRs) and the Data Protection Act 2018 (DPA2018) / General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR). The statistics cover only requests logged by the Welsh Government's Information Rights Unit and exclude "routine" requests and information given out during the normal course of business. As a result, the data is only an indication of the Welsh Government's experiences and performance.

Unless otherwise indicated the data presented in the tables and graphs throughout this report was obtained from the Welsh Government's Request for Information (RFI) Tracking System on 05 July 2021. Please note that percentages are rounded to 1 decimal place in areas which may lead to apparent slight discrepancies between the sum of the constituent items and the total.

This report does not cover requests received by other public authorities in Wales.

Summary:

In 2019:

- The Welsh Government received 734 requests for recorded information.
- The total number of requests received decreased by 21.4% (from 934 in 2018).
- Of the 734 requests the Welsh Government completed<sup>1</sup> 734 (100%) at the time this report was generated.
- Of the 734 completed requests, 648 (88.3%) were completed within 20 working days and 655 (89.2%) were completed within the statutory deadline<sup>2</sup>.
- Of the 734 completed requests some or all of the information was provided in response to 477 (65.0%).
- The most commonly applied exemptions / exceptions were: FOIA section 40: personal information (32.3%), FOIA section 21: information accessible to applicant by other means (15.5%), and FOIA section 43: commercial interests (9.1%).
- The Welsh Government received a total of 52 complaints (7.1% of requests received) relating to its handling of requests for information.
- Of the 52 internal reviews, the complaint was upheld in 7 cases, partly upheld in 7 cases, the original decision was upheld in 36 cases. 1 complaint was withdrawn by the complainant and 1 complaint is still under review.
- The Information Commissioner's Office investigated 15 complaints<sup>3</sup> (2.0% of requests) and issued a Decision Notice in relation to 8 of them.
- 4 ICO Decision Notices were appealed to the First-tier Tribunal.

<sup>2</sup> The statutory deadline includes requests answered either within 20 working days or within a permitted extended deadline.

<sup>3</sup> A complaint to the ICO is defined as a formal investigation which has resulted in the ICO issuing a Decision Notice or is otherwise resolved by the ICO.

Volume of Freedom of Information Requests:

The Welsh Government received 734 requests for recorded information in 2019. Since the commencement of the FOIA on 1 January 2005 the number of requests received each year has fluctuated. There was a 21.4% decrease in the number of requests received in 2019 when compared to 2018.

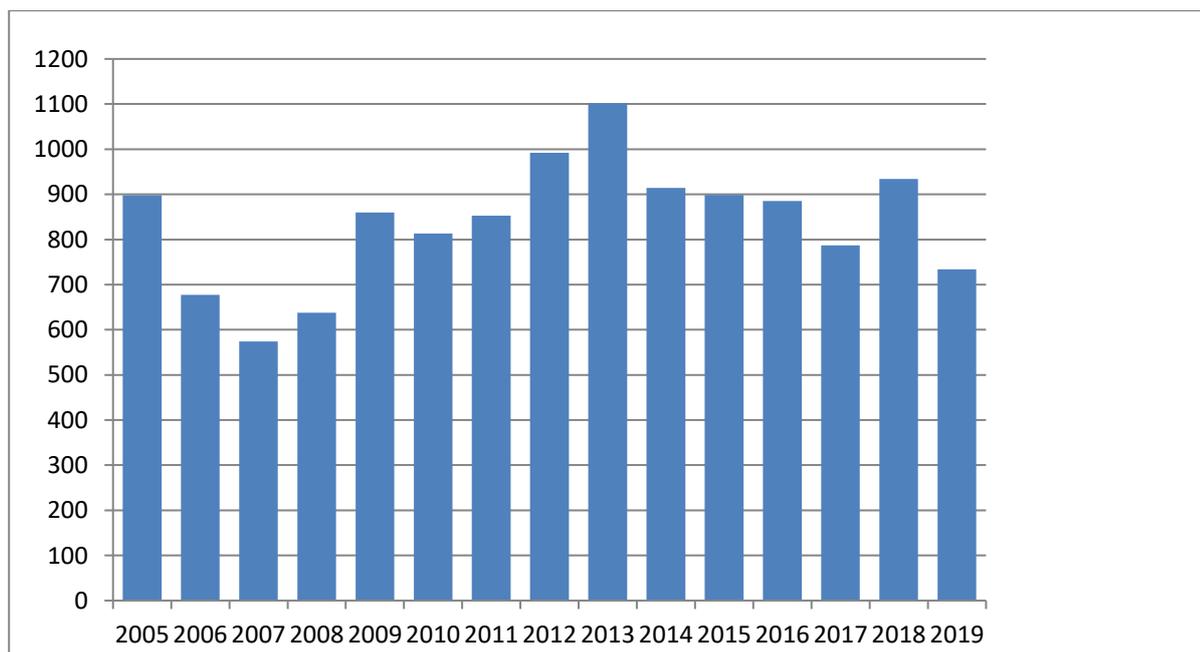

Table 1 and Figure 1 below detail the annual total number of requests for recorded information received by the Welsh Government since 2005.

Table 2 and Figure 2 compare the number of requests received on a month by month basis in 2018 and 2019.

Timeliness of Responses:

The FOIA and EIRs both require public bodies to normally respond to written requests for information within 20 working days of receipt, with limited exceptions. The FOIA allows for a reasonable extension to the 20 working day deadline when considering a public interest tested exemption and the EIRs allow for an extension of a maximum of a further 20 working days if the request is complex and voluminous.

Of the 734 requests, 734 were complete (100.0%) at the time the report was compiled. Of the 734 completed requests, 648 (88.3%) were completed within 20 working days and 655 (89.2%) were completed within the statutory deadline<sup>4</sup>.

Table 5 below details the percentage of requests completed within statutory deadline by the Welsh Government since 2005<sup>5</sup>.

Year	% completed within statutory deadline

---

<sup>4</sup> The statutory deadline includes requests answered either within 20 working days or within a permitted extended deadline.

<sup>5</sup> The figures for 2005-2008 differ slightly to those published in earlier reports due to open requests subsequently being completed after publication.

Outcome of Completed Requests:

The number of completed requests received by the Welsh Government during 2018 and 2019 is shown by completion category in Tables 6a and 6b, and Figures 5a and 5b.

<sup>7</sup> This includes requests where the information was withheld in full using one or more exemptions/ exceptions listed in the FOIA, EIRs 2004 or DPA other than s12 'cost of compliance exceeds the appropriate limit' and s14 'vexatious or repeated'.

Use of Exemptions and Exceptions:

Under the FOIA, a public authority can only refuse to provide requested information that it holds if the:

- request is considered to be vexatious or repeated;
- cost of compliance would exceed the 'appropriate limit' (£600);
- fee is not paid;
- information falls into one or more of the categories of exemptions/exceptions listed in the FOIA, EIRs 2004 or DPA.

Table 7 and Figure 6 details the exemptions and exceptions applied at least ten times by the Welsh Government during 2019. A full list of the exemptions and exceptions can be viewed at Annex A (the figures in Table 7 do not show the number of requests that have had an exemption and/or exception applied to it because it is possible for more than one exemption and/or exception to be applied in relation to individual requests).

Where the Welsh Government has used exemptions and/or exceptions available to withhold information, full explanations have been provided and published in the Disclosure Log which can be viewed on the Welsh Government internet site:

<https://gov.wales/freedom-of-information-responses>

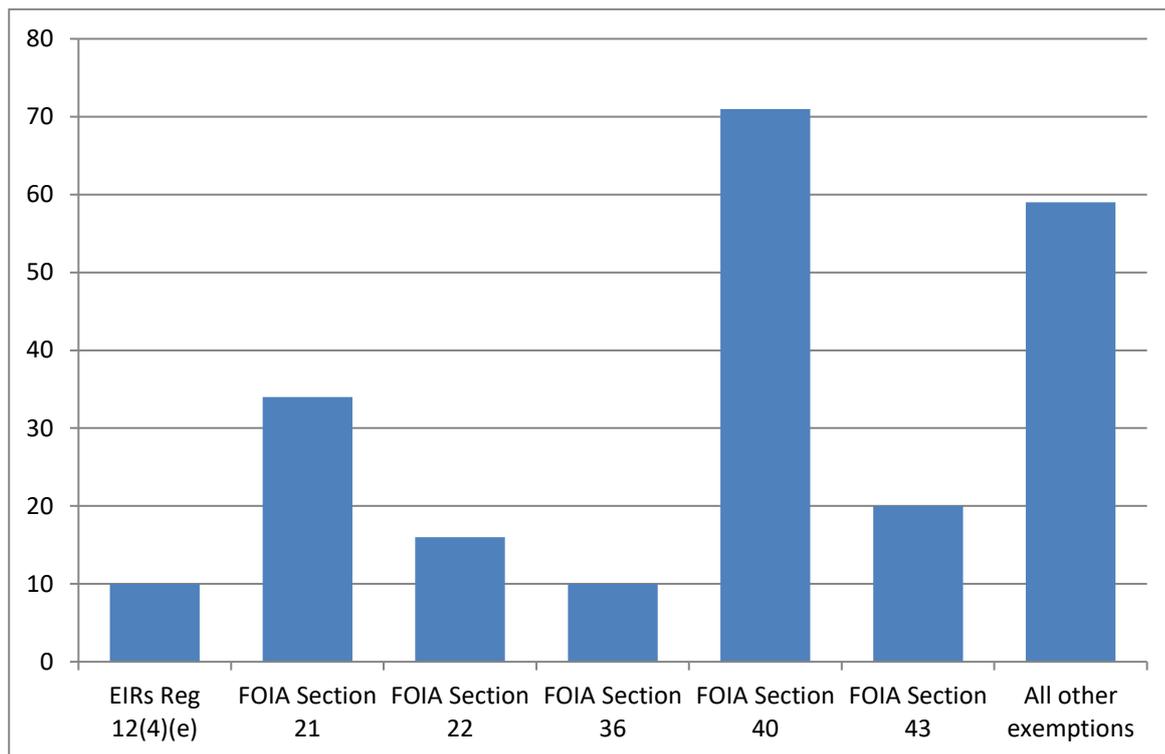

The exemptions most commonly applied were to protect personal information (section 40 FOIA), where the information was accessible to the applicant by other means (section 21 FOIA) and to protect important commercial interests (section 43 FOIA).

Internal Reviews:

Requestors can ask the Welsh Government to undertake an internal review if: i) they do not agree with the decision to withhold some or all of the requested information; ii) the request was not dealt with within 20 working days; or iii) they feel that a fee was wrongly charged.

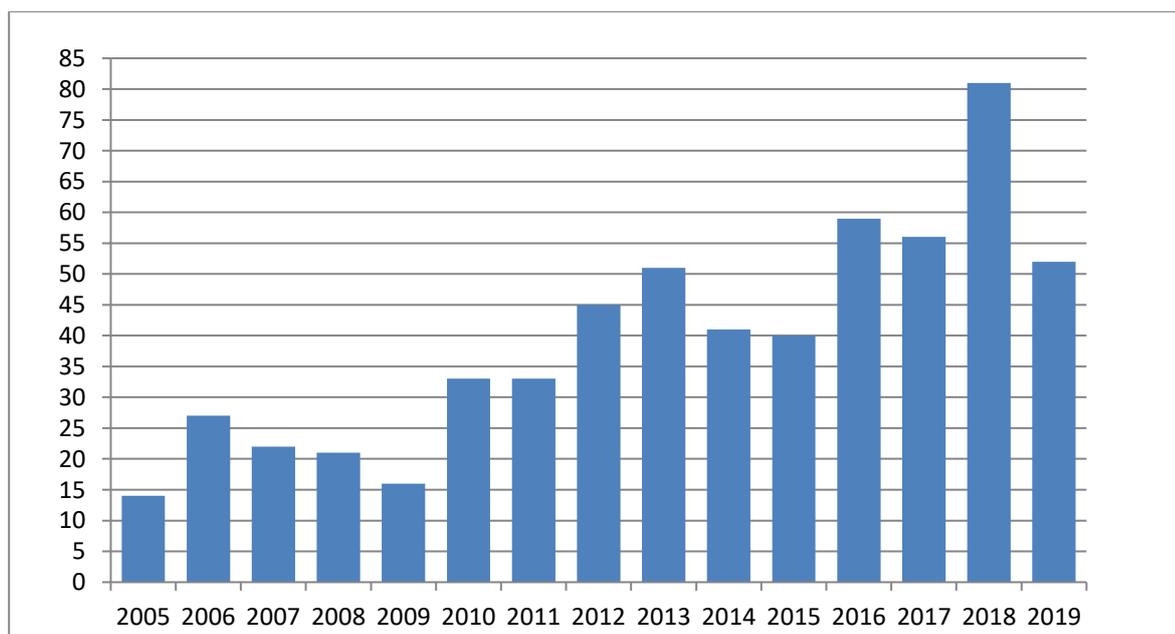

The Welsh Government received 52 complaints in 2019 which equates to 7.1% of requests. This was a decrease compared with 2018 of 35.8%.

Of the 52 internal reviews, the complaint was upheld in 7 cases, partly upheld in 7 cases and the original decision was upheld in 36 cases. 1 complaint was withdrawn by the complainant and 1 complaint is still under review.

Timeliness of Internal Reviews:

There is no statutory deadline for completing an internal review. However, the Information Commissioner has issued guidance which states that an internal review should be completed within 20 working days and that in exceptional cases the deadline for completing can be extended to 40 working days.

Of the 52 internal reviews 40 (76.9%) were completed within 20 working days, 8 (15.4%) were completed within 21 to 40 working days and 3 (5.8%) took longer than 40 working days.

Appeals to the Information Commissioner:

If a requestor is not satisfied with the Welsh Government's response, then they can complain to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), which is the independent regulator of public authorities in relation to the handling of information requests. Upon receipt of a complaint, the ICO will decide whether to investigate and may subsequently issue a Decision Notice. A Decision Notice is the ICO's final view on whether or not the public authority has complied with the FOIA or EIRs, and what remedial action (if any) needs to be taken. Not all investigations will result in a Decision Notice. Some investigations are resolved informally.

In 2019 the ICO investigated 15 complaints<sup>9</sup> (2.0% of requests). Of the 13 completed investigations 8 decision notices were issued. One of the Decision Notices required further action by the Welsh Government.

Appeals to the First-tier Tribunal (Information Rights):

The First-tier Tribunal (Information Rights) hears appeals against Decision Notices issued by the ICO. In 2019, 4 ICO Decision Notices were appealed to the First-tier Tribunal. One of the appeals was upheld on the grounds that the Welsh Government had dealt with the request and withheld information under the FOIA rather than the EIRs, however it was held that the information could still be exempted from release under the EIRs using substantially the same arguments. The other 3 appeals were dismissed.

<sup>9</sup> A complaint to the ICO is defined as a formal investigation which has resulted in the ICO issuing a Decision Notice or is otherwise resolved by the ICO.
