Dear [REDACTED]

The recent flooding incident at Taffs Well Quarry and its impact on the local community has understandably generated significant public concern. While investigations remain ongoing, it is important that public confidence is maintained and that public safety and environmental considerations continue to be afforded the highest priority.

I understand that NRW has been assessing the environmental impacts arising from the incident. In this context, it would be helpful to understand NRW's current position, including whether NRW intends to issue any regulatory requirements, recommendations or enforcement actions to Breedon Group.

It would also be helpful to understand NRW's view on the resumption of quarry operations and whether there are any environmental requirements or recommendations that should be addressed by Breedon Group before operations recommence.

I appreciate there may be limitations on the information that can be shared while investigations remain ongoing. Nevertheless, given the concerns of local residents, any information you can provide would allow officials to keep Welsh Ministers informed as the investigation progresses.

Yours sincerely,

[REDACTED]
